OH WOW!!!!

Erin, I fell asleep last night drafting an email to you and then woke up to this!!! We simply have no words. Thank you so, so much for sending these photos to us so quickly - it's meant that we're able to view these as a whole family while we're all still here in Tofino, and relive the memories once more before we scatter across the globe again in a few days' time.

Thank you, from the bottom of our very full hearts, for being such a wonderful part of our big day yesterday. With the small family affair we were planning, we knew from the get-go that any photographer would have a significant impact on the occasion, and we feel truly blessed that you were the one to be there with us. Everyone couldn't stop raving about you!! You brought so much warmth, and good humor, and fellow mama energy, and put us all at ease in a way that I don't think anyone else could have. I really can't quite put into words the effect your presence had on me, personally; I'd been going through an unexpected bout of jitters, despite having told myself the whole time we were planning the wedding that it was no big deal, and I felt like you knew exactly how I would be feeling or what I would be thinking at any given time, voluntarily corralling the boys for us when they started pootling off (still managing to take photos all the while!), reassuring me that my pits were not that hairy :D, and reminding me to breathe and really sink into certain moments that I might not have been mindful of if it weren't for your wisdom. This meant so, so much to me.

The sneak peek photos are just incredible. I didn't mention this yesterday in case I inadvertently embarrassed you, but when Jessica from Salty Dolls was doing my hair, I mentioned that you were going to be photographing us and she just about dropped her comb!! She had so many lovely things to say about your professionalism and approach to work and life. Our family is in awe of your humanity, your spirit and your artistry, and we can't wait to see the rest of the photos in a couple months' time!!

With unending gratitude,
Akane and Justin
