Erin

As we sit here and reflect on our wedding one year later, we can't help but be eternally grateful for you. To have our special day documented and to be able to relive those moments is such a gift. And you gave us so much more.

Erin was a deal breaker in our planning from day one, a definite non negotiable, it had to be her. Spending days with us capturing the beauty, peace, adventure and wilderness that Nimmo has to offer, was a big ask, and I'm so grateful for Erin's sense of adventure and wild soul that she was up for it.

From a spur of the moment tipsy engagement shoot on disappearing rocks, to picnics in the woods, saunas on the pacific, a day of chasing waterfalls and endless white sand beaches, Erin was able to make it all look like a something out of a fairy tale. It truly was, but she was able to capture the feeling.

Somehow she knew when and what we needed before we did. Erin had a welcomed calming energy and soft flow to her presence while at the same time a light seeking and this is the spot, let's land here excitement. Who knew we would be getting so much more than a photographer. A true pro, sudo bridesmaids, and friend all wrapped into a perfect package.

Erin, You are a magic maker. You bring it with your kindness, tender heart, and love for what you do.

There is a quote on your website by Ansel Adams, "You don't make a photograph just with a camera. You bring to the act of photography all the pictures you have seen, the books you have read, the music you have heard, the people you have loved."

I truly believe that you bring all of this with you and pour it into each and every couple's special day. What a talent you have and are willing to share.

Thank you, truly thank you.

Thank you for choosing us to be one of your lucky couples. Thank you for adjusting, going with the flow, and making our wedding happen in what was such a wild year. You helped make our dreams come true.

With all of our love
Kelsey and Dave Rannala
