Amy & Ryan

I knew I wanted Erin Wallis to photograph my wedding for years. I had been following her page on Facebook and was mesmerized by the magic she would capture in each and every wedding she photographed. I wanted those memories captured at my wedding and I was so lucky to have her on our big day.

One thing that really struck me about Erin is that she seemed as excited for my wedding as I was. She was so positive and reassuring and I knew I would have the best pictures to look back on when I wanted to revisit the memories of that day. She was amazing at relating to everyone at the wedding and getting the best pictures of them that she could. She could calm anyone that was feeling a bit nervous and she was willing to do anything to get amazing shots. I trusted her vision completely and I'm so glad that I did because what we are left with now is such a true representation of how amazing our day actually was. I look through our pictures with a smile on my face and can feel the emotions I was feeling when they were taken...they can bring me to tears at times.

I believe that's a true talent. Erin's ability to invoke the feelings of a day in the pictures that were taken continues to amaze me. She was able to capture every emotion, every moment and that means the world to me. The only difficulty I face is trying to decide which pictures I want to have up in our house because I want them all!

I am such a huge fan of Erin and I hope to have her photograph other important times in our lives as our family grows. I wouldn't have chosen anyone else to capture our moments. I feel so blessed to have had our wedding photographed by Erin and I am so thankful I was able to find her for our day. I have only good things to say about her. She is a true kind soul that only wants the best for you and your memories. She makes you feel as though you are the only people in the world and that your wedding is the only one that's important to her. She is calm, composed and has the greatest vision for photography that I have ever seen. She is a truly amazing photographer and an absolute gem. Having Erin at your wedding is the best insurance that you will be able to revisit one of the most important days of your life with clarity and joy.

I honestly cannot thank you enough Erin, you made one of my dreams come true and I am forever grateful! Amy Day xoxo
